KREEGER CABIN

GENERAL INFORMATION

ABOUT THIS PROPERTY

This charming mid-19th century log cabin was built by Isaac and Louisa Krieger on land purchased by his parents in 1814 and has remained in the family since then. The Kriegers were among German immigrants who traveled down the Great Wagon Road in the 18th century from Pennsylvania and settled in nearby Bethania. The Kriegers eventually established themselves in the Rural Hall area near present-day King.

The cabin is built of hand-hewn logs with half-dovetailed notching set on a stone foundation. The first and second floor is arranged in a hall-and-parlor plan. Entering the cabin through split-leaf paneled doors, a small entry features the paneled staircase with turned balustrade and newel post. The living room or "hall" features wood beamed ceiling and large Federal/Greek Revival-style mantel. Throughout the cabin are hand-planed wood walls and ceilings, pine floors, simple door and window surrounds, and stylish Greek Revival two-panel doors. The roof is covered by a standing seam metal roof and the roof eaves display delightful decorative brackets. All of these elements are reflective of the previously rural setting of the homeplace, and Isaac and Louisa's successful enterprise.

The original log house was eventually expanded by Isaac and Louisa's son James (by this time spelled "Kreeger") and his wife Charlotte around 1900. Sometime in the 20th century, the house was rented to people farming the surrounding land.

The five-room Kreeger Cabin has a living room, kitchen, dining area/entrance room, and a full bathroom on the first floor, and one full bedroom and a loft on the second floor. The property is connected to town water and sewer. The first floor has an electric mini-split, and a window unit for the second floor. Since its restoration in 2000, the cabin has been used as a guesthouse and family getaway. In livable condition, the cabin would benefit from updates and repair to some lower logs, as well as landscaping efforts to soften the impact from the nearby neighborhood. The property is not subject to the Gentry Farm neighborhood HOA.

AREA INFORMATION

Spanning Stokes and Forsyth Counties, and just a short drive from Winston-Salem, the city of King is a close-knit community with access to nature and small-town charm alongside the conveniences of nearby cities. The city is also home to an extensive National Register Historic District filled with late 19th and early 20th century buildings spanning its agricultural and railroad history with a view of the picturesque Sauratown Mountains.

Beyond the area's man-made attractions, King provides ample opportunity for outdoor enthusiasts to engage with North Carolina's outstanding natural beauty, as both Pilot Mountain and Hanging Rock can be found close by. For more area information, visit www.ci.king.nc.us and www.co.stokes.nc.us.
